All men and older boys are invited.

Private J. A. Vanasse post, No. 308, Veterans of Foreign Wars. The evening was enjoyed by a large company, the hall being decorated and the music furnished by Hays's Cavalry orchestra. The pleasant event was arranged by the following committee: Samuel J. Chabotte, Patrick Delaney, James Greenhalgh, Leander MacKewen, Joseph Cournoyer, Norman Whipple, Charles Goble.
Charles Rathbun of Waterville is living in Plainfield and is employed by Fred Gardner in construction work.

Mrs. Liza Latour died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Theodore Rollard, on Thursday, after an illness of five weeks. Mrs. Latour was in her 84th year and was taken ill with a shock.

Edwin F. Murphy, director of the Community house since it was opened in 1920 has tendered his resignation and is leaving Plainfield on Saturday. During the long and successful term of service Mr. Murphy has made many friends who regret his removal to enter his father's business in Lynn. The appreciation of the association for his services was shown by the farewell reception given by the Community Association on Tuesday evening when the hall was beautifully decorated and a large company assembled. Music was furnished by the Philharmonic orchestra of Norwich, and refreshments were served and there were games and dancing.

During the evening Robert R. West, in giving words, presented Mr. Murphy a watch and chain, white roses and had his monogram cut into it. It was a gift from the members and friends of the association.
A pair of gold cuff links with monogram was presented by Albert Bebeau for the Buddies, an organization of young men when Mr. Murphy organized for athletic work and who in their basketball team lost only one game last season.

Mr. Murphy was enthusiastic in his work and carefully organized the varied activities of the Community house and accomplished splendid results for the association. He will be greatly regretted by a host of friends in Plainfield who wish him the best of success in his new enterprise.

There was a large attendance and refreshments were served. Two new members were voted into the club. After the routine business the president introduced Rev. William C. Prentiss, formerly of Plainfield, on the Castles and Chateaux of France, illustrating his address by more than a hundred excellent stereoscopic views, many of them taken by him during his year of service in France.

Mrs. Tebo and Mr. and Mrs. Davis were callers on Mrs. George Lewis of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Bar.
At the Congregational church Sunday morning, the pastor, Rev. William C. Prentiss, will preach on "Facing Tomorrow." Teachers are to report on their part in the bazaar at the Sunday school service.

At 7 o'clock service in the evening there is to be a special service in the interest of Scout work. Scout Executive F. A. Brown of Norwich, who has carried the memory of Arthur L. Fiske, president of the court of honor and George Young of Taftville are also to be present and will read the Scout Law. Kraus will play the violin and the Boy Scouts will sing a song. A new Scout flag is to be dedicated.

Charles Prentiss, formerly of Plainfield, now of Nassau, N. Y., paid a short visit to Plainfield last week. His many old friends were glad to see him again. When Mr. Rathbun lived at Plainfield he was in St. Paul's church, on Sunday at 2:30 p. m.

St. Paul's Brotherhood meets twice a month, the second and fourth Thursdays. At the last meeting the Rev. Prentiss was elected assistant secretary. These meetings are very informal and every member is free to express his opinion on any subject whatever. The subject at the last meeting was the League of Nations.

After all those present felt that they had talked enough and that there was no further doubt about the realization of a League of Nations the meeting adjourned. Coffee prepared by W. Collins was served. At their next meeting the Brotherhood will decide as to whether or not the country is remainer.

ANNOUNCEMENTS
Two Features at Broadway Sunday Night
Night Only
What is declared to be one of the outstanding motion picture events of the season is the picture, "The Light in the Piazza," a story by Robert Louis Stevenson's famous story. Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde, with John Barrymore in the leading role. This remarkable play will be on view at the Broadway theatre for one night, Sunday night only.

The Stevenson classic is undoubtedly the greatest story about a personality ever written. It is a story that John Barrymore, with his surpassing talents as an emotional star, should interpret the story. His portrayal of "Jekyll" and "Hyde" is said to rank with the best of his achievements in the past.
Martha Mansfield, a beauty of the stage has the leading female role, and Doris Brandon Hurst and Cecil Cline are among those in the supporting cast.

A comedy that shimmers with fun and glows with romance will bring Doris May and a superb cast to the Broadway Theatre Sunday night only. It is the fifth R-C production and has been fashioned by Hays's Cavalry orchestra. The May appears as a plain little country girl who comes to New York in quest of a job on the stage. She becomes a vaudeville star, however, who pines for her "understudy." Doris enters seriously upon her work but Fate leads her into a romance, from which she is rescued by a corking comedy. The Little Star, embracing such prominent players as Olla Hylan, Wallace McDonald, Charles and Doris Davidson, Clarence L. Brown directed The Light in the Piazza.

Hope Hampton's Latest Stunt Wide Interest Coming to Broadway
Probably as much attention is being focused on Hope Hampton's new first National starring vehicle, "The Light in the Piazza," which comes to the Broadway theatre on Monday as on any feature picture released in the past few years.
The story, which was written by William Dudley Polley, is a modern drama and modern costumes are used. However, there is a period sequence of the story of the Holy Grail, wherein the wonderful color effect are used.
An exceptional cast supports Miss Hampton. E. K. Lincoln and L. C. Gray have leading roles. Other parts of importance are taken by Theresa Maxwell Connover, Miss Dorothy Walters, Charles Munster, Edwina Dore and Doris Davidson. Clarence L. Brown directed The Light in the Piazza.

Massachusetts Withdrawn from Stage to Screen Play, at Strand Monday
It is very seldom that a stage success of the very first order is withdrawn from the theatre without even a stay in stock in order to be filmed. Guy Bates Post's appearance as the star in the screen version of "The Massacre," the Richard Tully production and a first National attraction, which comes to the Strand theatre next Monday is a notable event. The reason for the sudden change in its marking the film debut of both the star and the producer. Each of them have won an enviable reputation in the theatrical world. The production is a superlative supporting cast that will be seen in this picture are insurance of its high quality.
Such has in fact, been the case for the motion picture public everywhere has been responding eagerly to the opportunity of seeing on the screen this combination of star and vehicle.
An Education comedy and a Sensational news rounds out a perfect program.

Broad Theatre
Forget-Me-Not, the Metro picture which comes to the Broad theatre Sunday Monday and Tuesday reproduces with great fidelity the life story of two foundlings.
In the orphanage where the mother has left her baby, Ann Gordon, for a foundling named Jimmy. But one day there comes a rich woman, Mrs. James, who adopts Ann and Ann is left alone. The other children eventually find homes but no one wants the little girl with a crippled leg. A street musician takes pity on her and she goes to share his meagre one-room home. Through the paths of the two childhood sweethearts, Anne and Jimmy, the story unfolds. Anne, through the kindness of Jimmy, finds a home and a loving father. It is a story of faith and love and yearning for happiness that is thoroughly human from beginning to end.
The orphans are played by Greta Hughes and Beatrice Love. The characters so lovable and so pitiful that there is a constant tug at the heart strings.
Forget-Me-Not is a Louis Burton production, written by Henry R. Symonds and adapted by John R. Clymer. It is directed by W. S. Van Dyke.
The picture will be seen in Dog's Life, and Topics of the Day will complete the bill. Today's bill consists of Tom Mix in Chasing the Bandits, Hatcher in Go Go Jim Hatch, the Pathé news and a Sensational comedy. Continuous show today from 1:30 to 10:15.
